

Letter from the Chair

Dear members and friends,

I am very pleased to announce that the Citigroup Foundation has renewed its support to the Banking with the Poor network through a grant of $US 570, 000 for 2007 and 2008 which will enable the network to expand its activities and further strengthen microfinance in Asia.

2006 was an exciting year for the BWTP network. With the support of the Citigroup Foundation we were able to consolidate the network and engage in successful activities which helped our members, to better face the challenges of providing inclusive financial services to low income households across Asia.

The network has expanded and currently has some 30 members spread over nine countries in Asia.

We have also started to issue a monthly e-newsletter which has significantly increased the visibility of our BWTP website.

With the Citigroup Foundation support, the next year appears to be equally exciting. The BWTP network will continue working on the key areas of capacity building and information exchange.

One stream of activities will focus on expanding the outreach and quality of financial services to under-served people, and to maximize the impact of these services on their livelihoods through innovations in partnerships and strategic alliances between organisations engaged in the sector.

We also believe that the network should take advantage of the expertise of some of our members and help "younger" and newer members. A Technical Assistance Program to be offered within our network will start in 2007.

We will also continue the dissemination of the curriculum on Microfinance and Disaster Management and encourage further training to take place where relevant and needed.

In addition, we will hold a second Asia Microfinance Forum during 2008 and expect to showcase innovations and best practices in microfinance relevant for Asia.

We want to thank the Citigroup Foundation and the Foundation for Development Cooperation for their support, but also our members, partners and friends who have helped us in our efforts to contribute to poverty reduction in Asia.

New BWTP Programs

The Citigroup Foundation's renewed support over the next two years will provide the BWTP Network the opportunity to continue to improve the quality of life of the poor in Asia. It will do so by promoting and facilitating access to credit, savings instruments and other financial services through linkages between financial sector institutions (such as commercial banks), NGOs and SHGs.

❖ Linkages and Partnership Approach in Microfinance

Partnerships and alliances between formal and less formal institutions are an alternative way of expanding financial services into rural areas. The essence of the partnership approach is to bring together complementary resources and skills from diverse sources drawing on each partner's core strengths. Partnerships are a useful way to allow all partners the opportunity to overcome weaknesses and constraints which are not easy to overcome on their own. The BWTP Network is working to develop and disseminate a set of curriculum and training materials on the partnership approach, which will be delivered through in-country workshops in Asia.

❖ Best Practices Dissemination

Across Asia there is a strong common need to build the capacity of microfinance providers to enable them to manage efficiently their traditional business of financial service provision. The BWTP Network seeks to provide assistance in this field by disseminating best practice models throughout Asia. The Network will draw on the experience of its members to develop the 'younger' members in the Network and to improve the capacity in countries or areas where microfinance and industry is less developed. In this context, workshops and technical assistance will be delivered throughout Asia.

❖ Dissemination of Disaster Management Curriculum

The BWTP Network's previous work in the field of microfinance and capacity building in post-tsunami reconstruction has produced a package of high quality, multi-language training manuals and resources on "Microfinance and Disaster Management". The resources include manuals, presentations and handouts which are currently available in five different languages with other languages expected in the future. The resources are available free-of-charge through a dedicated website. At this stage nearly 500 microfinance personnel have received the microfinance and disaster management training. The Network plans to make further use of these resources by generating a greater awareness of the issue among MFI managers.

❖ 2nd International Asia Microfinance Forum 2008

Given the success of the first Asia Microfinance Forum, the BWTP will hold a second Forum in 2008. Consultation with our partners will start mid 2007.
